THE CENTER FOR RESPECT
P.O. Box 269, Mukwonago, WI 53149-0269
800-329-9390 | Mike@CenterForRespect.com
CenterForRespect.com

Mike Domitrz, CSP, CPAE,
Author & Subject Matter Expert

For over 20 years, educational institutions, the US Military, and the media have been turning to Mike Domitrz for having him share effective training methods for how to build a culture of respect for all people.

Mike is known for his interactive, passionate, and high energy approach to providing specific language and how-to skills for navigating essential conversations with those you lead. While he presents one of the "cleanest" trainings, Mike holds nothing back. When you attend a training led by Mike Domitrz, bring your questions. People from all ranks, ages, cultures, backgrounds, and diverse populations appreciate his sincerity and honesty.

You may have seen Mike on NBC Dateline as a featured subject matter expert or being quoted in international news publications such as Forbes and The Wall Street Journal. His book "Can I Kiss You? A Thought-provoking look at Relationships, Intimacy and Sexual Assault" and his book "Voices of Courage: Inspiration from Survivors of Sexual Assault" are both frequently utilized as educational resources by SARCs and Victim Advocates.

As a critically acclaimed author, Hall of Fame speaker (C.P.A.E.), and as the Founder of The Center for Respect (www.CenterForRespect.com), Mike works closely with military members and installations for producing initiatives that help transform the stereotypical repetitive approaches to consent, bystander intervention, sexual decision-making, and opening the door for survivors coming forward.

In the past 2 decades as a subject matter expert, Mike has presented hundreds of trainings throughout the US Military on installations around the world.